2-Aug-2018

- Amid an increase in trade tensions between China and U.S., stock markets in advanced economies performed poorly and the main European indices registered losses, except for the Portuguese PSI 20 which edged up by 0.3%.
- In fixed-income markets, yields on European 10-year sovereign bonds experienced a broad-based increase of more than 4 b. p. Similarly, yields on 10-year Treasuries edged up by 5 b. p. and exceeded 3%, a rate not seen since late May.
- ▶ In oil markets, the barrel of Brent decreased below $72.5, reaching a 12-day low.
- As expected, the statement of the Fed's monetary policy meeting delivered no movements on the interest rate and reflected a strong macroeconomic scenario. As a result, the chances of a rate hike in September have increased even further. Today the Bank of England is expected to increase its reference interest rate to 0.75%.
